

Inspiration To Use Narrow Land That Is Healthy and Profitable

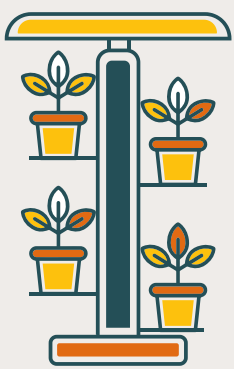

Utilizing the narrow land around the house to grow crops, apart from being a profitable side business, can also help make the air around the living environment fresher and healthier, let's take a look at some of these interesting inspirations!

Planting vegetables using the hydroponic method, which is a method using water as a planting medium instead of soil so that the crop yields are fresher and healthier.

Planting with the aquaponic method, which is farming using water as a planting medium, while cultivating various types of freshwater fish such as tilapia and catfish.

Farming with the vertical method, which uses husk or soil as a planting medium which is designed vertically using plastic pipes.

Wall gardening is using the walls of the house as a medium to place small pots that can be planted with fruit such as strawberries or the cultivation of very promising orchids.
